DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by

Sodergreen [Pat. No. 2,086,338]

Sodergreen teaches a method for sterilizing food by injecting steam (Figure 1, #24), baffled which act as static mixers (Figure 1, #28 & 30), an agitator which acts as a dynamic mixer (Figure 1, #11), and a body which acts as a tubular tank (Figure 1, #2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over

Smith [Pat. No. 5,906,853] in view of Palm [Pat. No. 5,425,581].

Smith teaches a method for heating food by injecting steam (Figure 1, #14) and agitators which act as dynamic mixers (Figure 1, #16 & 18). Smith does not recite a static mixer with baffles. Palm teaches a steam injector comprising static mixing baffles (Figures 8-9). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the static mixing steam injector of Palm into the invention of Smith since both are directed to methods of mixing , since Smith already included a steam injector (Figure 1, #14) but simply did not describe it in detail, and since the static mixing steam injector of Palm provided a means for injecting steam while also providing improved mixing of the steam and food.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 2/8/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Sodergreen does not teach a series of steps comprising static mixing followed by dynamic mixing. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., static mixing followed by dynamic mixing) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Claim 1 recites "comprising the distinct and subsequent steps". It does not state that the steps are done separately or in any particular order. The term "subsequent" has been given its broadest reasonable interpretation: undertaken at a later time. Clearly, the steps of Sodergreen were undertaken at a time after initial commencement of the process.

In response to applicant's argument that Palm could not be used with Smith, the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981).

In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., processing of purees only) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Claim 1 recites processing of "food products, purees and/or concentrates". Clearly, both Palm and Smith were directed to processing of food products and could easily have been combined by one of ordinary skill in the art.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
